

PRESENTS

The Gifted Child: Parent and School Responsibilities

This presentation will describe some of the basic traits and characteristics of gifted children, and what parents and schools need to know and do to develop their unique potential.

Learn the myths and truths about gifted children. What are realistic expectations about their behavior and learning?

Our presenter, James LoGuidice, is a past president of the Pennsylvania Association for Gifted Education. He has taught, interviewed, and counseled thousands of gifted students at all grade levels, and he has worked with countless teachers and school leaders to develop programs to challenge gifted students.

Mr. LoGuidice will share his insight and experience, and will cover some of the legal rights that affect the education of gifted students.

Please join us for this special presentation!

The Gifted Child:

Parent

and School

Responsibilities

with Speaker

James LoGuidice

Tuesday, January 26, 7:30 PM

Cheltenham Administration Building, Room 102